Live online courses with your teacher

"Having tried an in-person class at alpha.b, I was very interested to see what the virtual classes would be like. For me and many people around the world at the moment, virtual classes are a real necessity if you want to continue learning French.

Yes, it's true that learning French at home, where you already have to be most of the time anyway, is a far less attractive proposition than learning French on the beautiful French Riviera. On the other hand, this way I can attend my classes in my bedroom, wrapped in a blanket with a mug of tea (an essential ingredient for learning for British people)."
